Editors' Page

A yearbook is a representation of its high school. The pictures demonstrate the personality of the student body, the clubs are a display of the involvement, and the colors are a portrayal of the pride that flows throughout the school. The yearbook staff intends for the 2011 Chief to depict the spirit of the Class of 2011.

To achieve this goal, we spent hours throughout the summer and school year perfecting the yearbook. However, numerous obstacles made this goal seem impossible. The creation of the cover, for instance, was filled with hours of tedious work and was an ongoing headache. Furthermore, every page was distorted against our will and required adjustments. Probably the largest struggle we faced as editors was putting this yearbook together for another class, since we are juniors. This responsibility motivated us further, and we worked to make the yearbook as accommodating as it could be.

We would like to thank a number of contributors that made this yearbook possible. Our hours of work would be pointless without the beautiful pictures from Chestnut Hill Studios. Without the yearbook company, Jostens, and especially our wonderful advisor, Christina Garnett, we would not have had the capabilities to create the yearbook and solve the problems that surfaced. We would be nothing without Mr. Coulombe, and his dedication, organization and leadership; his personal time spent on the yearbook is evident in the final product. Finally, we would like to thank the Class of 2011 for being the content of the yearbook. We hope that this yearbook fulfills its purpose and allows you to look back and reminisce about your high school years.

Your Editors,

Lauren Coulombe

Dedication

Mr. Lewandowski, commonly referred to by his students as Mr. Lew., is a multi-talented person who has been teaching chemistry, as well as stints of Principles of Technology, for many years. He is known for his dry sense of humor and relaxed manner with his students. He is famous for his wise “Eskimo sayings,” and unique usage of the S.L.M. (Standard Lab Monkey) as a unit of measurement. Also, we know him for his, and everybody else’s, best friend (the Periodic Table of Elements), his incorporation of its elements in seemingly unrelated subjects, and his unconditional love of Boron (shown in the bottom left picture). Aside from his quirks, his former students consistently speak well of his efforts in preparing them for their futures.

While Mr. Lew.’s major contributions to Case High School has been his outstanding Chemistry instruction, it is noteworthy that he also devoted many years of effort as the school’s science fair coordinator. Countless former students progressed from the Case Science Fair, through the Regional Fair (an organization to which he also made significant contribution), and even further up to the State and, in some cases, National Fairs. Many of Mr. Lew.’s former students now hold their Ph.D. degrees in fields that were conceived and developed through his efforts. Also, he initiated the participation of Case students in their Junior Science and Humanities Symposium. He began bringing his students to this forum approximately 30 years ago when it was hosted by UMASS Amherst.

Outside of school, Mr. Lew. was an avid and expert skier, as well as a racecar driver. His knowledge of vehicles and their maintenance is among his exceptionally many talents. When students or faculty have questions about their vehicles, Mr. Lew. is the person to whom they go for advice.

Overall, Mr. Lew. is an exceptional, well-rounded contributor to the Case High School Community. He shows support of all Case activities, which reveals that he truly cares about more than his own classes. If there is anyone who is most worthy of recognition in the Joseph Case High School yearbook, it is Mr. Lewandowski.

In Appreciation

The Case High Theatre Company is celebrating its 35th consecutive season under the direction of Tom Marcello. After two postponements and many winter storms, Mr. Marcello presented his first Swansea production on January 22, 1977 at 8:15 p.m.: William Gibson's The Miracle Worker. Among the cast of this first show was a 14-year-old Brian McCann who played Annie Sullivan's dead brother, Jimmie. The two-night run was a resounding success, encouraging Mr. Marcello to audition Case students immediately for Rodgers and Hammerstein's classic musical, The Sound of Music, to be presented in April 1977.

His first 5 years in Swansea were filled with many different types of theater, including Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, the Greek tragedy Hippolytus, the hit musicals Godspell, Fiddler on the Roof, and The King and I. Case High entered the Massachusetts High School Drama Festival for its first time with an original 40-minute drama about King Tut and his wife, The Lost Queen of Egypt. Although Case did not advance in its first year, three outstanding performances were recognized, as well as the school's use of technical theater, a first for the Drama Guild. The following year, Case High was in the state finals in Boston with a gallery of Shakespeare's lovers, And They Were Lovers, only to be disqualified for running 23 seconds overtime. Three years later, Case won the state title with an original adaptation of the classic fairytale The Dancing Princesses. Since 1979, the Case High Theatre Company has been to the state finals 22 times.

During the next three decades, Tom Marcello continued to challenge the Case High community with a scope of different types of theater, from the routine high school fare to original pieces welcoming children into new worlds. Joseph Case High School was the first high school in the country to perform full-length productions of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and The Elephant Man. Case was granted permission to premiere festival cuttings of Nicholas Nickleby, The Grapes of Wrath, The Kentucky Cycle, Epic Proportions, The Laramie Project, and Blood Brothers. Two Mary Zimmerman premiere cuttings represented Massachusetts in the New England Drama Festival, Metamorphosis and The Arabian Nights.

Under the direction of Tom Marcello, Case Theatre has consistently been about tradition and involvement. In any given main stage production, almost one-third of the high school community is involved. Students come to high school looking forward to being part of A Christmas Carol during their high school journey; (Mr. Marcello has produced six different productions of this Dickens classic holiday tale). What would hosting a drama festival event be without skipping the judges down the Yellow Brick Road as the auditorium is magically transformed into Oz for the awards evening? Most of all, Tom Marcello brings to his students a love and respect for the performing arts and the ability to find talent in all of his students. Mr. Marcello has inspired students for 35 years and has passed on his experiences and knowledge to help all of them throughout their lives. His dedication is evident in the breathtaking performances that he creates year after year. From making hundreds of hand painted ornaments to staying late to make sure a scene is perfected, Mr. Marcello has given his time, heart and soul to the theatre company. For his commitment to the students of Joseph Case High School for the past 35 seasons, we thank Tom Marcello.

Letters from the Administration

To the Class of 2011,

Congratulations! One educational journey has ended, but another life journey for you has begun. The past 12 years of education has prepared you with the skills and knowledge necessary for your next passage. No more mandates of what you have to do, but now what you do is a choice. A choice made by each of you. Challenge yourself; don't settle for less. Look at your next endeavors as short-term opportunities that will lead you to the successful pursuit of your lifetime goals. They all lead to experiences and strengthen you as a person. Continue to grow and don't be afraid to take a risk. I have the greatest confidence that you will face your next journey with the skills, knowledge and determination necessary to reach your goals.

Good luck and remember you are prepared for any choice you make in life.

Christine Stanton
Superintendent of Swansea Public Schools

Congratulations on your graduation from Joseph Case High School. It seems like a very short time ago when I sent you off to high school as your Principal at Joseph Case Junior High School. I remember at that time asking you to continue to challenge yourselves and make the best of every opportunity that presented itself in your high school years. I also shared with you that the next four years would fly by and that if you are willing to work hard and make the right choices that you would achieve your goals.

You should be proud of what you have accomplished and eager to pursue the challenges that lie ahead. Go forward with the confidence that the knowledge and experience that you have gained at Joseph Case High School will allow you to reach the new goals that you have set in life.

I congratulate you on this important achievement and wish you all the best in the pursuit of all your future endeavors.

Robert G. Monteiro
Assistant Superintendent of Swansea Public Schools

Late in the second act of Arthur Miller's 20th century tragedy Death of a Salesman, Willy Loman is reminded by his successful brother that "(the) jungle is dark but full of diamonds." Sitting in a theater this past fall watching a production of this classic play, I was struck by how appropriate these words are to the Class of 2011.

Joseph Case High School has prepared you for jobs and responsibilities in the 21st century that have not yet been created by embracing 21st century skills and weaving them into your academics. Many of you are preparing to enter college shortly, while others are seeking a career or military path. Whatever road is ahead, it is natural to feel ambivalent about what lies ahead.

Be sure that this uncertain jungle that is near is filled with opportunities: some good and productive, others a diversion from realizing your dream. It's your job to strive for diamonds for the future and be able to discern the real thing from rhinestone. Your work at Joseph Case High School has readied you for this journey.

I hope that each of your adventures after Joseph Case High School continues to be full of glittering possibility for positive change. As Willy Loman is advised, "One must go in to fetch a diamond out."

Brian McCann
Principal

To the Class of 2011,

In remembering your first days at Joseph Case High School, I am so impressed with how much you have grown as a class over your four years here. I look back at our time together in your freshmen health classes very fondly because of the lively discussions and debates we had together.

As you move on to the next phase of your lives, I hope you remember our discussions about the importance of making informed decisions. You will encounter many challenges throughout your lives and I encourage you to take the time to weigh all of your options.

Regardless of the path you choose after high school, I encourage all of you to step out of your comfort zone and try something new. There is always more to experience and to learn.

I wish you the best of luck in all your future endeavors.

Sean Scanlon
Vice Principal

Hello

Goodbye

The Joseph Case High School community and the Class of 2011 would like to give a warm welcome to this year's "hirees." We appreciate your influence on our school and know that you will make a positive, long-term contribution.

We would also like to thank this year's retirees. Your years of service at Joseph Case High School will be forever remembered by the community, and specifically the Class of 2011, who will proudly leave the school with you.

To the Class of 2011,

We would like to thank every one of you for the memories you have given us over the years. The Class of 2011 will always be remembered. We will also miss your class and all that you have brought to the Swansea school system. I hope you have enjoyed your time traveling the hallways and classrooms of elementary schools, junior high, and high school. We wish you all the best in the future!

Good Luck,

Your tree of Life

She climbs high in the tree for all to see,
Testing each branch, some weak and some strong
Reach for them all, break some and begin to fall, catch the next one
Have some fun, life is a journey to be lived and enjoyed,
As you climb through the branches of life-
Remember to enjoy each branch, spread your love among them and you will find
The tree you have grown will give you shelter during stormy weather,
Wrap their branches around you and keep you safe and give you comfort,
They may spread wide along your journey. Remember you can always
Follow the branches back to the main trunk, lay down on a blanket underneath,
Look up at each branch and see how your tree of life has grown,
And reflect on your life achievements, successes and yes even some failures,
How they have shaped your tree,
May you have comfort in the knowledge
The lower the branches the stronger their strength
Made of family and friends who support you as you grow-
Higher branches have length and some strength,
Some will break under the strain of tough decisions
But always know the strong lower branches are there to catch you if you fall..
Climb back to the top and reach for the stars

Andrew Desrosiers

Andrew,
It can be hard keeping your focus throughout the years of dedicating yourself to receiving an education, but you made it! Graduating is a time for celebrating those things that have been accomplished and also the entrance into a new stage of life. This is just the beginning of many more accomplishments in your future. The possibilities are infinite ~ the best is yet to come!

Our special wish for you is that the future holds all that is bright and beautiful. With love always,

Mom, Dad and Jared

ZACHARY RIGO

Zachary,
We are so proud of the young man that you have become. Your smile and wonderful personality light up our lives every day! Good luck in college and remember you can be anything you want to be if you work hard! Always remember the three R's!

We love you,
Mom, Dad, Trevor & Samantha
